

YOUR STUDENTS AS FUTURE FULBRIGHTERS

PRESENTER(S):

- ANDREW SEIDLER, DIRECTOR, OFFICE OF NATIONAL SCHOLARSHIPS & FELLOWSHIPS

DESCRIPTION:

We will dive into the world of nationally competitive awards by providing a brief overview of the Office of National Scholarships & Fellowships and the various awards available to students (such as the Fulbright, Rhodes, and many others), explore the student experience in working with ONSF, and discuss common characteristics of candidates for prestigious awards. This session is ideal for advisors seeking strategies and resources in working with their high-achieving students.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Participants will:

- Become familiar with ONSF and how we work with UT students, campus-wide
- Learn about various nationally competitive awards available to your students — from funded study abroad programs to STEM research awards and yearlong post-graduate fellowships
- Gain an appreciation for why the introspective process of applying for nationally competitive awards is so valuable to students
- Learn how to identify potential candidates for prestigious awards and how and when to refer them to ONSF
