

GREAT EXPECTATIONS: A FACULTY PANEL DISCUSSION

CORE AUDIENCE: ADVISORS OF FIRST-YEAR STUDENTS

PANELISTS:

- FACULTY OF GENERAL EDUCATION COURSES

DESCRIPTION:

Students often have questions about the classroom experience, and advisors may be able to answer them, but to different degrees. This faculty panel will be composed of instructors who teach general education courses and interact with students from all colleges. As such, the instructors will be able to explain classroom expectations, learning strategies, and information on the classroom experience that advisors can share with students.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

- Participants will be able to better articulate the value of general education courses and their broader applicability as foundational courses
- Participants will gain knowledge of the classroom experience across many disciplines and will be able to distribute more in-depth information about courses
- Participants will build connections with faculty members who play an invaluable role in the advising process and student experience
- Participants will be able to discuss faculty expectations for success in the classroom
